DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1, 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Lee (US Pub. NO. US 2005/0103676)

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application.

Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Regarding claim 1, Lee discloses an air packing bag, comprising: an upper film (Figure 4 element 21); a lower film (Figure 4 element 22); and a plurality of spaced heat-proof members (Figure 4 element 33) sandwiched between the upper film and the lower film, wherein the spacing and the length of the heat-proof members correspond to the quantity of the bladders (Figure 3).

Regarding claims 5-7, Lee discloses the valve mechanism is disposed between an upper sheet and a lower sheet of the air packing bag (Figure 4); the valve mechanism is extended in a mouth of each bladder (Figure 1); pressure inside the inflated bladder pushes both the upper film and the lower film to urge against an inner surface of the upper sheet for blocking air from leaving the bladder (Figure 5).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Lee (US Pub No. 2005/0103676) in view of Jaszai (US Patent No. 5,826,723).

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art only under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) might be overcome by: (1) a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not an invention "by another"; (2) a showing of a date of invention for the claimed subject matter of the application which corresponds to subject matter disclosed but not claimed in the reference, prior to the effective U.S. filing date of the reference under 37 CFR

Art Unit: 3753

1.131; or (3) an oath or declaration under 37 CFR 1.130 stating that the application and reference are currently owned by the same party and that the inventor named in the application is the prior inventor under 35 U.S.C. 104, together with a terminal disclaimer in accordance with 37 CFR 1.321(c). This rejection might also be overcome by showing that the reference is disqualified under 35 U.S.C. 103(c) as prior art in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a). See MPEP § 706.02(I)(1) and § 706.02(I)(2).

Regarding claims 2 and 3, Lee substantially shows the claimed subject matters but it fails to disclose the upper and lower film having a thickness from 30 μm to 35 μm . Jaszai discloses a 0.02 to 0.5 mm thickness resin film (Col 4 line 18-21). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide Lee with the film having a thickness as taught by Jaszai provide a thick film for protection and strength.

5. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Lee in view of Tanaka et al (US Patent No. 6,629,777).

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art only under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) might be overcome by: (1) a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not an invention "by another"; (2) a showing of a date of invention for the claimed subject matter of the application which corresponds to subject matter disclosed but not claimed in the reference, prior to the effective U.S. filing date of the reference under 37 CFR 1.131; or (3) an oath or declaration under 37 CFR 1.130 stating that the application and reference are currently owned by the same party and that the inventor named in the application is the prior inventor under 35 U.S.C. 104, together with a terminal disclaimer in accordance with 37 CFR 1.321(c). This rejection might also be overcome by showing that the reference is disqualified under 35 U.S.C. 103(c) as prior art in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a). See MPEP § 706.02(I)(1) and § 706.02(I)(2).

Regarding claim 4, Lee substantially shows the claimed subject matters but it fails to disclose the upper film and the lower film are formed of PE. Tanaka et al discloses two plastic films are formed of polyethylene. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to form the upper and lower films by polyethylene, as taught by Tanaka et al, use preferred materials. The selection of known materials, such as, polyethylene on the basis of suitability for the intended use would be entirely obvious. See in re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960)

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

De Luca et al (US Patent No. 6,761,960) discloses an inflatable cushion.
